DETAILED ACTION

Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: On p. 1, line 8, and on p. 30, line 6, the U.S. non-provisional application numbers should be inserted into the blank spaces. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Objections

Claim 19 is objected to because of the following informalities: Claim 19 cannot be dependent upon itself. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

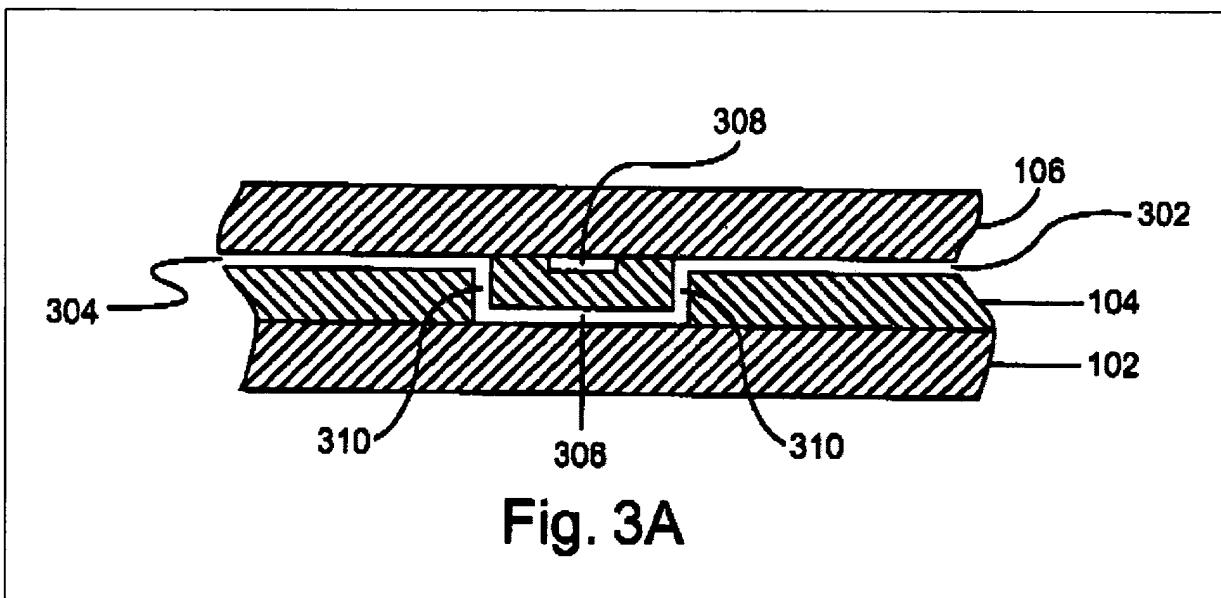

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

Claims 1, 2 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Chow (U.S. Pat. No. 6,167,910 B1). Regarding claim 1, Chow teaches a microfluidic apparatus comprising: a body (104 & 106) defining at least one channel (302) comprising a channel bottom (e.g., the top surface of substrate 104), which comprises a bottom opening (e.g., the opening to fluid passage 310), wherein the channel terminates in a discharge aperture or opening (e.g., the opening to channel 302) (see col. 10, lines 5 – 24; figure 3A). Chow does teach that the channels may be utilized for both fluid transfer and separation processes (see col. 5, line 64 – col. 6, line 14; col. 10, lines 25 – 44). The Courts have held that apparatus claims must be structurally distinguishable from the prior art in terms of structure, not function. See In re Danley, 120 USPQ

528, 531 (CCPA 1959); and Hewlett-Packard Co. V. Bausch and Lomb, Inc., 15 USPQ2d 1525, 1528 (Fed. Cir. 1990). The Courts have held that the manner of operating an apparatus does not differentiate an apparatus claim from the prior art, if the prior art apparatus teaches all of the structural limitations of the claim. See Ex Parte Masham, 2 USPQ2d 1647 (BPAI 1987) (see MPEP § 2114).

Regarding claim 2, Chow teaches the incorporation of a seal member (102) positioned against the bottom surface (104) of the body. Regarding claim 5, Chow teaches the incorporation of an additional channel or reservoir (e.g., 306) within the apparatus body.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

1. Claims 1 – 14, 18 – 33, 38 – 43 and 53 – 55 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of double patenting over claims 1 – 31 of U. S. Patent No. 6,454,924 B2 since the claims, if allowed, would improperly extend the "right to exclude" already granted in the patent.

The subject matter claimed in the instant application is fully disclosed in the patent and is covered by the patent since the patent and the application are claiming common subject matter, as follows: The claims of the instant application appear to be directed to the identical apparatus of the patent. The claims of the instant application are within the scope of the patented apparatus as recited in the patent claims.

2. Claims 15 – 17, 34 – 37 and 44 – 52 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of double patenting over claims 1 – 12 of U. S. Patent No. 6,730,516 B2 since the claims, if allowed, would improperly extend the "right to exclude" already granted in the patent.

The subject matter claimed in the instant application is fully disclosed in the patent and is covered by the patent since the patent and the application are claiming common subject matter, as follows: The claims of the instant application appear to be directed to the identical method of the patent. The claims of the instant application are within the scope of the patented methodology as recited in the patent claims.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure: Hirota et al. teach a microfluidic dispensing apparatus. Christel et al. teach a microfluidic device comprising a channel network and a round columnar array.
